Reflections:

Christmas gift suggestions:

To your enemy, forgiveness.
To an opponent, tolerance.
To a friend, your heart.
To a customer, service.
To all, charity.
To every child, a good example.
To yourself, respect.

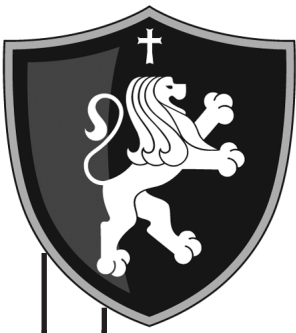

-Oren Arnold

As Christmas quickly approaches and life gets even more hectic, memories are made from the giving of one's self to the benefit of others. The commercialization of the holiday has turned the focus away from the real meaning we celebrate. One Christmas I was greatly blessed by my son who on his own initiative gave me a card with many "redeemable coupons" for the use of his many talents. The cost of the gift was in the time he gave to fulfill the request, i.e. vacuuming, mowing the lawn, emptying the dishwasher, etc. So as the hustle and bustle begins to steal our joy, remember the greatest gift we can give this season is our time telling someone about Jesus and His love for us - what cost to us to give someone the truth that leads to eternal life with Him.

Blessings,

Principal

Christmas Wishes

'Twas the night before Christmas vacation this year and teachers were beginning to show some fear
That after the break they'd be missing key tools that they had wished to receive before the yule.
Do not fear for time there will be
To visit and see what's hanging on the Teacher Tree.
Pick one . . . two . . . or more and you will see
Legacy teacher's shouting yippee!
